Tavern Lease for Sale.

THE subscriber being about to remove to the Indian Queen Tavern, in Baltimore, offers for sale, on advantageous terms, the lease of the House he now occupies, having eight years, from the first of December next, to run; which for convenience, it is believed, is excelled by none in the United States, and from the proximity to the seat of government, and the direct communication which will be opened between the city and Alexandria by the bridge across the Potomac and the Turnpike Road, bids fair to become one of the best stands for business in the country, as the distance to the Capitol over the bridge will be only about 7 miles. With the Lease will be sold, if wanted, the whole of the FURNITURE, as it now stands, together with a large stock of WINES & LIQUORS, There is a vacant Lot on the corner of Cameron and Pitt-streets, adjoining the stables, attached to the House, (which renders it particularly commodious, as by that means the property fronts on three streets) which will be sold in fee simple, or leased for the remainder of the time.

A handsome LOT of GROUND, in the centre of the square between King and Cameron streets, and fronting on Washington and Columbus streets, 107 feet, with a public alley on one side, and an open space that cannot be built on on the other. For a public situation it is unequalled by any property in Alexandria.

ALSO,

A LOT OF GROUND, at the west end, about half a mile from town and fronting on the Little River Turnpike Road, 85 feet, running back 250 feet, more or less. There are improvements on the property adjoining it, on each side.

A handsome LOT OF GROUND, on the George-Town road, about half a mile from town, in a very beautiful situation, containing two acres.

A handsome SQUARE OF GROUND, on Washington and Columbus streets, within one quarter of a mile of town, well enclosed with a post and rail fence, containing something less than two acres.

A half acre LOT on the commons, about the same distance as the last mentioned.

ALSO,

My interest in the lease of a FARM, containing between one and two hundred acres, adjoining the town of Alexandria, in a high state of cultivation, and enclosed with a new post and rail fence, (in one of the enclosures is the Alexandria Jockey Club Race Course) with a large crop of OATS and HAY, which will be sold in the stack or otherwise;—— two waggons, four carts, eight ploughs, two double barrows, a large and elegant roller, all of the best construction, six good farm horses, and every other article that can be wanted for a well managed farm, together with 12 choice milch COWS, a fine buffaloe BULL, forty head of SHEEP, about fifty head of HOGS of the very best breed that could be procured. Also, some very VALUABLE SLAVES, if they should be wanted for the farm.

ALSO,

The two lines of STAGES between George Town and Alexandria, with a light HACK & four HORSES.

NOTICE.

All persons having claims against me are requested to bring them forward for settlement; and all persons indebted are desired to make immediate payment, as no longer indulgence can be given, my intended removed rendering it necessary that a full adjustment of all accounts should take place.

JOHN GADSBY.

From the Savanah Columbian Museum.

FOURTH OF JULY, 1808.

This great and glorious day was celebrated at my plantation, in a comfortable style; being solus, I chose myself president, and will venture to assert that a more perfect unity of sentiment, and harmony of disposition, never prevailed, since the existence of our National Independence. The following appropriate toasts were drank, accompanied with songs—after which I retired with decency and decorum.

1. The GLORIOUS DAY—that I now celebrate:
Purchas'd by heroes at so dear a rate,
May every rascal meet a broken pate,
And his base name become obliterate,
Who would attempt thro' malice to create
Political dissentions in this state
At such a crisis
Song—Firm united let us be, &c.

2. The sacred memory of great Washington:
His virtues shine resplendant as the sun—
The day I now enjoy his valor won:
I prithee, death, don't think it was well done
To take him from us!
Song—Faithful below he did his duty, but now he's gone aloft, &c.

3. The Philosophic Friend of Thos. Paine:
A lack of firmness—not a lack of brain,
But want of nerves may make a man insane.
—Our crops are very much in want of rain,
But these embargo times I wont complain,
Because 'tis nonsense.
Song—Poor Tom's a cold, long metre.

4. The Constitution—as it was of old:
Pure as unadulterated gold:
Alas! Alas! I could a tale unfold;
But no—t'would make my boiling blood run cold,
And crack my heart strings.
Song—God save the United States, &c.

5. The State of Georgia—as it ought to be:
I hope to live the happy time to see,
Among all parties perfect harmony,
And honest dealings.
Song—A light heart and thin pair of breeches, &c.

6. Our Sister States—throughout the continent:
I do not think the money was well spent,
That for the Lousy-Anna purchase went
To Buonaparte.
Song—Moll in the Wad and I fell out.

7. Nothing for Tribute, for Defence a Million:
We'll make Napoleon dance a new cotillion
If arbitrary measures he keeps still on,
To rule our great men.
Song—No foreign land shall give us laws, &c.

8. The British Council—it appears to me,
They wish to take a trip across the sea,
And with us drink another dish of tea
In Massachusetts,
Song—Yankee Doodle.

9. A free and open trade with all the world.
May every tyrant from his throne be hurl'd,
And with hot pokers have his whiskers curl'd,
That would prevent it.
Song—America, Commerce and Freedom.

10. Our Infant Navy—once it promis'd well:
Its nurse was chang'd—& wonderful to tell,
Like Terrapine it crawl'd into a shell
At the New City.
Song—I'm safe from Davies Locker.

11. Omitted.

12 Brave Warren, Mercer and Montgomery,
Who died like heroes for our liberty,
Their mem'ry shall be ever dear to me—
Peace to their ashes.
Song—Soldiers Adieu.

13. Traitors and Vagabonds of every kind:
May they like my old horse become stone blind,
And be compell'd a BRAN NEW road to find,
To Carter's Mountain.
Song—O ye scamps, ye pads, ye divers.

14. The American Fair—kind Heaven bless them all.
For their protection, at a moment's call
Would I turn out and firmly stand or fall,
Altho' a coward.
Song—And when the wars are over, we'll come and live with you.

15. My Planting Friends—the neighborhood around:
Of honest hearts and principles right sound,
May Cotton fetch us Fifty Cents a pound,
And Rice Five Dollars.
Song—Hospitality, all reality, no formality, here you'll ever see.

16. Myself—poor fellow, tho' the last not least:
May I grow better as my days increase,
And when death comes—Oh! may I die in peace.
—I have no friend to toast me at my feast,
'Tis hard by gracious.
Song—In the down hill of life, &c,
A CRACKER PLANTER.

FROM THE N. Y. EVENING POST.

Observations by PELTIER, a French gentleman residing in London, on the bitter sarcasms and malignant invectives which daily appear in the Paris Moniteur.

[Concluded from Saturday's Gazette.]

In the last notes which he has caused to be published, he reproaches us for having robbed Madeira from our ally, and not to have confided to him the guardianship of this island. It is not from Portugal that we have taken Madeira; but from you, who, by your intrigues or by some expedition that chance might crown with success, might one day have seized or claimed this prey as one of the dependencies of the kingdom of Portugal. It is you who force us to such conquests; we make, by just reprisal and from a due regard to our own safety, that which you do to satisfy the instinct of destruction by which you are agitated; and while you exclude us from all the ports of the continent, we secure to our fleets harbors in those seas where yours dare not shew themselves but in flight.

Ministry, you say, laugh at that parliament which has no longer any guarantee nor independence. What? The parliament has lost its independence because it approves of the ministers! It has weakened its guarantee, because it concurs with them in all the measures which have for their object the defeat of your atrocious policy and insatiable ambition. You see in this support which it affords to government, the sentiment of all the people; you see that this nation of traders carries its views beyond the interests of that commerce which is but a branch of its prosperity—but an accessary of her existence; that she is sensible of the dangers which surround her, that she prepares to resist them without stopping at local considerations or temporary privations, the baleful influence of which has, among all other nations, delivered both sovereigns and people to your infernal ascendancy.

You, the child of jacobinism, you, who hide under the royal diadem the bloody emblem of your former connexion with the executioners of France; you will one day see the Herculean efforts which true liberty will produce; you will see that the nation who enjoys it, knows how to sacrifice something to preserve its eternal principles; and there where you pretend that there is no longer any independence or guarantee, is preparing a resistance which will disconcert your ambition, which will perhaps punish it, and which will reduce you either to perish, devoured by the torments of an impotent rage, or shew to the universe that you are only powerful from the weakness of other nations, and that their own terror has hidden from them your nothingness and your folly.

You ask from whence will come the increase of glory and splendor which his Britannic majesty promises to a prince, who has abandoned, say you, three millions of his subjects, &c. This increase, you yourself well know, will flow from the probable union of Mexico and the Brazils under the same government; from the independence of this new empire, from her immediate relations with England, in short, from an administration which, becoming paternal and enlightened, will renounce that monkish despotism, so contrary in all ages to the progress of arts and industry; finally, having more immediate intercourse with the aborigines of the country, will inspire them with more respect and confidence, and amalgamate them with men in whom, till this day, they have seen only masters. Such is a feeble sketch of the advantages of the arrival of a European prince in those countries.—New destinies are opening for them. This futurity, so terrifying to Europe, she this day laughs at, and perhaps they are destined one day to revenge on your descendants all the evils with which you afflict the ancient continent. You reproach the Prince Regent for having abandoned his subjects and the country of his ancestors. Ah! Barbarian did you leave him any other alternativ but this step? Was it proper for him to remain in the land of his fathers to struggle with the continual outrages of your ferocious lieutenants, and of a soldiery whom you had taught to despise legitimate sovereigns? Was it necessary for him to devote to the fatal and ignoble list which you prepared for him no doubt in the catastrophe which was to rob him of the inheritance of his fathers, that he should consecrate your usurpation by his presence, and that he himsel should abdicate in your favor, rights which for a long time you had determined to deprive him? This it is, without doubt, that mortifies your ambition, was the cause of your malevolence, was the food of your hatred, and of that policy which does not think it has obtained complete success as long as the prince who was the object of it preserves himself from degradation. Here your pride, at once stupid and ferocious, has been deprived of an enjoyment, and for a man of your character, such a mortification ought, for some days at least, to snatch you from your illusions and to make you less confident in your fortune.

In announcing that Russia may become mistress of Stockholm, you have proclaimed the fate of Sweden, for a long time fixed by the treaty of Tilsit. Such is the bait which you have offered to the emperor Alexander, or rather to such of his ministers as are sold to you; such is the prey which he can no longer refuse; which it is necessary for him to dart upon without pity, without hesitation, if he does not wish to displease you. He enters into the views of your policy, not only when sovereigns degrade themselves so far as to receive or to acquiesce in your usurpations, but after shewing themselves as fiery and cruel as you; they might justify your excesses by their own. You will only suffer those to remain for some little time longer, who shall have thus disgraced themselves, who shall thus have confounded their very being with yours, and blasted the rights which they hold from their ancestors, in confounding or exchanging territories against usurped territories, or to receive an increase of power. But this weakness, this connivance, will not save them; you have resolved that new families, taken from all that is most base and obscure, shall replace on the thrones of Europe, the most ancient, the most reverend dynasties; but such a decomposition cannot be effected, but by the gradual degradation of legitimate sovereigns to the end that they might become less indignant at their fall and less astonished at the elevation of the persons destined to fill their places. You have promised crowns to your generals, to render them faithful to your fortune; they wait with impatience those dazzling recompences; this hope draws them in the sphere of your activity, it fixes them there; for how can we otherwise explain, than by these exalted pretentions, their ardor to fly to new combats, and that inquietude which makes them appear to detest repose. Yes—Russia will become mistress of Stockholm, but in your turn you will be master of Russia. You will ask compensations at first for this kingdom which you will have permitted him to conquer; and these compensations you will find in Russian, Poland; and placed thus on the extreme frontier of the powerful empire of the north, you will threaten with an invasion until even this sovereign dragged by your accomplices into offensive measures, falls in one day, and by one single defeat as was the very recent fate of the descendant of Frederic the Great. It will then be for you that Russia shall have conquered Sweden, and no one will pity Alexander because he has consented to strike a fratricidal blow at the worthy grandson of Gustavus Adolphus, on the noble and magnanimous prince, who shines in the north like the polar star, and which announces perhaps to Europe, the Aurora of her deliverance.

"When an event is fixed by providence, you say, no human power can oppose it." Yes, Providence has determined that you should be one of those terrible means by which she regenerates to distant periods the moral order as she does the physical; that at the end of the most dreadful catastrophes, you would make your appearance to unite, as in one single bundle all the enemies and robbers who have produced them, to the end, that by their impulse thus concentrated in your bloody hands, people and kings might be punished, and ages to come astounded and petrified at the sight of those disasters which the CORRUPTION of men had engendered. But this same Providence, as well for the example of the world as for the consolation of humanity, will one day break with the crush of thunder the terrible instrument which it has made use of, and its rubbish scattered over the earth, will announce to men, the end of divine vengeances and the rapid existence of those monsters raised by guilt and pride.

From the NORFOLK LEDGER.

SPANISH REVOLUTION.—The intelligence which we publish in this evening's Ledger, from Charleston, was given by us yesterday to our subscribers in Norfolk and Portsmouth, in an extra paper, and is republished for the benefit of our country friends.

We now perceive more distinctly the causes which have led to this important event, and from which we anticipate a glorious result. The firmness and dignity displayed by the supreme council in their declaration of war, must animate every Spaniard with enthusiastic ardor. Such baseness, such tyranny, were never exhibited in the annals of civilized man. Unequal as the contest may appear, we rely confidently on the discomfiture of the tyrant. The supreme council has wisely and justly separated the French nation from the despot who presides over her. Scarcely are the French less unfortunate, than those nations who they are made to oppress.

It was important to ascertain the dispositions of the inhabitants of the Spanish colonies, and it is pleasing to observe that as far as they have been ascertained, that they are in perfect harmony with the parent country. The prudence and humanity of the governor at Havanna, claim the highest admiration. His protection to the French did honor to his policy and humanity. It would have stained a glorious cause to have shed the blood of men who were rather subjects for sympathy than resentment. The misfortunes of the St. Domingo refugees, required no additional weight, and if those who have settled in Cuba, are like those who have taken refuge in our country, they deserve to be respected for their correct deportment. But in this case, reasons of state policy, will we expect prevail, and those persons be compelled to leave the Spanish colonies, without respect to persons.

The effect which the events that are now passing might have in our country, would be felt with advantage by every class of our fellow citizens, if our embargo was removed. The activity which would be infused into our commerce and navigation, and consequently into our agriculture and mechanics, are too obvious to require any remark from us. The merchant, the mariner, the farmer, and the industrious mechanic dwell on all the advantages which they might derive from the present state of things, with chagrine and indignation, when they reflect that all their pleasing wishes are blasted by the effects of an embargo, which now promises ruin to this country and to this country only. It is now obvious that the embargo will not answer the principal object for which it was imposed. Yet it will not be repealed on that account. When Dr. Sangrado was informed that his patients were dying in such numbers, as if they had combined to bring his practice into disgrace—"Perish (says the emperic) the nobility, the clergy, and the people, but I will stick to my practice, and my principles." Just so our state doctors, "Perish the merchant, the mariner, the farmer, and the mechanic, but we will stick to our measures."

The immediate advantages which would be derived to this country would be a market at high prices for the surplus produce, and employment for the shipping, one resting in the barns and warehouses, and the other at the wharves. But looking forward, we conceive it important that the U. States should not be shut up in their shell at a season like the present. Great Britain, the commercial rival of this country, availing herself of the favorable disposition of the Spaniards, will no doubt adopt measures that will secure advantages to her own commerce, and perhaps to our detriment. It is most probable that the Spanish colonies will become independent, this is an event long wished for in this country, and yet we are in a situation that will not permit us to avail ourselves of the advantages which such an event would produce.

NEW-YORK, August 13.

The Spirit of the Times.—In our paper of Thursday, we copied from the Boston papers a notice to the inhabitants of that town to assemble for the purpose of petitioning the president to remove the embargo, at least so far as relates to Spain and Portugal and their colonies. The mail of this morning furnishes the following interesting proceedings of the meeting thus called. It will be seen that the meeting was general, and not confined to any particular party; and that the petition, or memorial, was carried almost unanimously. We hope a similar meeting will be called, and a similar memorial adopted in every town and village throughout the country. Let the voice of a suffering people, pronounced respectfully, but, at the same time, in the tones of independence and energy, be heard by their rulers. The people hold the sovereign power, and their will must be obeyed.

BOSTON, August 9.

Agreeable to notification a very numerous meeting was held in Fanuiel Hall, at 10 o'clock; when Stephen Codman, esq. was chosen moderator. The notification was then read, when the honorable Jonathan Mason, after a number of very pertinent remarks on the subject, offered the following motion, in the form of a vote:

Voted, That it is expedient for the town of Boston respectfully to petition the presi-

ent of the U. States to suspend the laws ring an embargo either wholly or in part, cording to the power vested in him by the ngress of the U. States; and if any doubts ould exist as to the sufficiency of those owers, that he be requested to call con- ess together, as soon as may be; and that committee of eight persons be appointed prepare and submit to the town a petition conformity.

The motion was seconded from every uarter of the hall; and a very spirited and loquent debate ensued. In which the mo- on was sustained by the hon. Mr. Mason, Mr. Daniel Sargent, the hon. Messrs. Otis nd Gore. And was opposed by Mr. Wm. arvis, Benjamin Austin and Geo. Blake, qs. The debate was protracted, until 2 'clock, when the question to adopt the mo- ion of Mr. Mason passed by an immense ajority (not more than twenty or thirty ands against it).

The following gentlemen were chosen on he committee, viz. hon. Jonathan Mason, Mr. Daniel Sargent, hon. Christopher Gore, Mr. James Perkins, Mr. Arnold Wells, Mr. Thomas H. Perkins and hon. Wm. Brown. The town then voted to add the moderator; nd adjourned to 4 o'clock, then to receive he report of the committee.

At four o'clock, the town re-assembled ccording to adjournment; when the com- ee reported the subsequent memorial, which as read from the chair, and passed nearly nanimously. We believe there were not alf a dozen hands against it in the hall.

To the President of the U. S.

THE inhabitants of the town of Boston, n legal town meeting assembled, beg leave espectfully to represent—

That uniformly influenced by a sense of atriotism and a respect for the constituted uthorities of their country, they have sus- ained without opposition or complaint, the mbarrassments and losses rising from the existing embargo, on the vessels and export rade of the U. States; and they trust, that he history of the revolutionary war, and he annals of the present government, will furnish ample testimony of their readiness to make any personal sacrifices, and to en- dure any privations, which the public wel- fare may truly require:

That they are fully aware of the indispen- sable necessity of supporting, at all times, the laws enacted by the government of their choice. Under this impression they have refrained from expressing the wishes they most sensibly feel for the removal of the embargo; and but for the great events in Europe, which materially change the as- pect of our Foreign Relations, they would yet silently wait for the meeting of Congress in the hope of obtaining from that honora- ble body, relief from the pressure of this great calamity, which bears with peculiar weight on the Eastern States.

Denied by nature those valuable and lux- uriant staples which constitute the riches of the South, they necessarily owe much of their prosperity, under the blessing of Hea- ven, to their own enterprize and industry on the ocean. It is therefore a duty, as well as a right, to avail themselves of every fair occasion which offers for procuring the removal of the existing restraints upon their maritime commerce, more especially when this may be effected in a mode consistent with the laws and policy by which they were imposed.

They therefore pray, that the Embargo, in whole or in part, may be suspended, ac- cording to the powers vested in the presi- dent, by the Congress of the U. States; and if any doubt should exist of the compe- tency of those powers, they would humbly request, that Congress may be convened as early as possible, for the purpose of taking the subject into consideration.

It was then voted, that the selectmen, in behalf of the town, transmit the Petition to the President of the U. States.

The Hon. Mr. Brown, after congratula- ting his fellow townsmen on the unanimity which prevailed, offered the following mo- tion, viz.

"That the selectmen be a committee to communicate the proceedings of the town to the Selectmen of the other towns of the Commonwealth, and to request them, if they see fit, to lay the same before their se- veral towns for their concurrence.

This motion also passed nearly unani- mously; and after a vote of thanks to the Moderator, the meeting was dissolved.

PHILADELPHIA, August 15.

The French brig La Paix, which arrived at the Lazaretto the 8th July last, on her way to this city, soon after dropped down to Marcus Hook, a village containing about 20 houses, off the public road, and of course free from the scrutinizing eye of the travel- ler. Why she went there, those who gave the orders best know; the rest of the world are left to guess. There she received a complete overhaul and repair, with new masts and rigging from stem to stern; and we are told that our collector, or some per- son under him, received orders from head- quarters, that the brig La Paix should be "liberally supplied!" In consequence of this order, we are told, that her challope was dai- ly and nightly transporting articles from this city for her accommodation, and the accom- modation of her patrons in Guadaloupe.— Among the articles so transported by per- mission "according to law," were 5 tons of cordage, 150 barrels of flour, 100 do. of salt provisions, 6 pipes wine, pipes bran- dy, with a long string of etceteras. Whe- ther the permitted articles loaded her or not we cannot pretend to say; be it as it may (with permission or without permission) we are told by a person who saw her going down, after her departure from Marcus Hook on Friday last, that she was as deep as she could swim—so we go—all for our good allies! We are also told, one of the Jeff's, alias our ships of the line (alias gun boats) accompanied her down, no doubt to pass her by the three Jeffs or ships of the line and Delaware cutter, now cruising in our bay, as it is, no doubt, improper to trust too many people with secrets.

BALTIMORE, August 16.

Arrived Swedish ship Heilten, Cummins, 18 days from St. Bartholomews. The ship Africa, of Charleston, sailed same day for London. On the 4th July, the English made an attack on the island of St. Martins, and were repulsed with considerable loss; a number of officers fell in the action.

RICHMOND, August 11.

On Tuesday evening last, we had one of the most powerful floods of rain ever wit- nessed by the inhabitants of this city. About 4 o'clock P. M. "the windows of heaven were opened," and the torrent discharged itself, for during an hour and a half, or two hours. An intelligent gentleman informs us, that there fell during the day, four inches and eight tenths of rain; the greatest quan- tity that he has measured, read or heard of, since the celebrated gust in September, '69. In the morning, only 10-45th of an inch: Above 4 inches and one 10th fell during the squall. The effects were correspondent to this impetuosity of water. Our streets were almost deluged. Small runs that were in the least confined by their banks, rose in some places 16 or 20 perpendicular feet.

But the most singular and unfortunate ac- cident, that took place in the vicinity of this city, was the injury sustained by the James River Canal and Basin. So sudden was the rise of the water, that for some distance it overflowed the canal, and run over the banks, on the sides of which, in several places, it washed away a considerable portion of the dirt. This rise and its consequent effects would have been much greater, if the arch over which the canal passes, about half a mile from the basin, had not given way.— The ruin of this arch is not so much attri- buted to the pressure of the superincumbent water in the canal, as to that of a stream of water, which passes under the arch, and was swelled by the accumulation of the rain to such a height, as to overflow the wall, and mingle with the waters of the canal. This stream bearing up against the concave part of the arch, is supposed to have burst the stones asunder: or as some suppose, it threw down the upper part of the opposite wall and removed the stones of the arch.

The water in the basin has consequently subsided from the loss of the water in the canal. In several places, the sides of the basin have also yielded and sunk down.

The loss of the James river company is estimated at about 2000 dollars. A part of the works of the armory also gave way; but it is supposed that 4 or 500 dollars will re- pair the damage and replace every thing in the same situation. The mills and armory, which stand below the arch, will be stopt in their operation, until its reparation is com- pleted. Boats cannot descend to the basin, but a tempo ary dam is erected a few feet above the arch, which will enable the boats to descend to that point on the canal. From that landing, the produce will be conveyed by drays to this city. This suspension will not probably continue for more than three or four weeks.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 17.

The Chinese mandarin, to whom permis- sion was granted by our wise executive to carry a vessel to China, turns out to be, what common sense would have indicated, an impostor, notwithstanding his resembling the pictures upon tea pots, as we were offi- cially informed. QUERE, "Who is the Dupe?" and for whose benefit was the im- position framed.

EMBARGO.

A friend of mine in Kingston, tells me he has raised 1200 bushels of grain. The greatest part of this, is wheat. Now if the embargo was not on, this grain would be worth, averaging it—1200 dollars. Now it would bring about 600. The embargo, therefore operates as a tax on this worthy enterprising farmer, of 600!!

For what is the difference between our rulers making the produce of our farms, 600 dollars less than usual, or leaving it at its ordinary value, and taking the 600 dol- lars away?

Though this is an enormous and alto- gether a disproportionate tax, that the Em- bargo imposes upon us, yet we might per- haps bear it with some degree of patience, if it did any good. But it is a fact, that the Embargo, does not, has not done, and will not do seven rams horns worth of good— it will not reduce a single city.

FOR SALE,

Or will be exchanged for PROPERTY in this place or neighborhood—

One half or the whole of the LONG GLADES, containning 1350 acres of Land. in the county of Fairfax, on the post road from Alexandria and the city of Wash- ington, 29 miles from the former and 14 from the latter.

On this land is the WHITE HOUSE half way between Alexandria and Leesburg. The situation for a public house is inferior to none. A store might be established here to advantage, and the meadow only will pay dou- ble the rent.

There is no tract of the same size in the country that is better watered, that has a lar- ger proportion of valuable meadow, nor no one in the state on which Plaister of Paris answers better. Hay meets with as ready sale as at Washington or Alexandria.

There are two Mill Seats, and a good situ- ation for a distillery—the latter is on the road.

If not sold in a few days, the White House will be rented, either with 200 or 350 acres of land.

ALSO FOR SALE,

A snug well enclosed FARM, in Loudon, near Goose Creek, adjoining the lands of Ludwell Lee, Esq. containing 214 acres.

ALSO,

A tract of Land of 350 acres, in the district of Columbia, between 7 & 8 miles from Alexandria and about 4 from George- town, or the city of Washington.

More than half this tract is in timber and has a piece of excellent Meadow, bounded for a mile and a half by Four Mile Run.

WILL BE PUBLISHED
IN A PAMPHLET AT THIS OFFICE IN A SHORT TIME,

AN ADDRESS

TO THE
PEOPLE OF THE U. STATES,
ON THE IMPORTANCE OF ENCOURAGING
AGRICULTURE & DOMESTIC MANUFACTURES:

Tending to shew that by a due encouragement of these essential interests, the nation will be rendered more respectable abroad and more prosperous at home.

TOGETHER WITH AN ACCOUNT OF
The Improvements in Sheep at Arlington,

The native Sheep of Smith's Island, and the plans proposed of extending this valuable race of animals, for the benefit of the country at large:

BY GEORGE W. P. CUSTIS Esq.
of Arlington House, in the District of Columbia.

AT a time when the energies of the nation seem awakened to the state of our foreign and domestic concerns, we conceive that the important interests of Agriculture and Manufactures should meet with a considerable share of the public discussion. Certain it is, that at no period of our political history could these national subjects excite more interest or be more properly urged to the notice of the publib mind. The unsettled and impending appearance of our foreign affairs, and the present disturbed state of the European world, renders it doubly necessary for the citizens of America to cherish and promote their domestic policy, whereby they may derive those resources which are now obtained from abroad and create wealth and industry within themselves. Too long have these important and patriotic interests been neglected. The nation now feels their want, and we trust will duly provide for their support. Government, hitherto engaged in other concerns, will now cherish those domestic institutions, which will preserve the nation's dignity and promote the people's welfare.

Of the merits of the little work we are about to issue to the public, it is not our province to decide, but of the advantages to be derived from its sale we would beg leave to say every thing which a disinterested exertion in the cause of Domestic Manufacture justly demands—And as the profits of this work, after the expences of publication are paid, will be solely devoted to the purposes of the Arlington Institution, we may hope and confidently expect a liberal patronage from a discerning and patriotic community.
